REMARKS

This is UNEVALUATED

construction work was completed up to the third story of a new quartering building at Finow airfield. Two large buildings were intended to be constructed. The date fixed for the starting of construction work on the second building could not be determined. The buildings are standardized and intended to be provided with stoves, while equal buildings in Vogelsang have central heating facilities. At the same time, three quartering buildings of the same type are allegedly planned to be constructed for the AA troops who have previously been quartered in earth bunkers.

Comment. The construction of new quartering buildings at Finow airfield was mentioned for the first time in a previous report. Construction work was still to be completed in the fall of 1954. The pin-point location of the buildings at the field has not been determined.
